

Dear FCC,

It has come to my attention that you may soon completely eliminate the restriction that prevents the same entity from owning broadcast and print media in one community or broadcast area.

To my way of thinking this is a dangerous trend that puts way too much control in the hands of a few men. Diversity of opinion, truth and freedom of the press are just a few things that would be in great danger if the same company were to control all the main sources of news. There is already too little variety of opinion in the mainstream US news media, this would turn them into a farce no better than 'news' in the former USSR.

Respectfully,

Ed Gibney
